Quality display items for Museums & Heritage Centres

Savekers has long had an association with the Museum & Heritage sector, based on its supply of quality manufactured metalwork and joinery display items, furniture and fittings, that are practical, durable and stylish.

Items from our standard product range that are suitable for application in Museums and Heritage centres, as well as their cafeterias and restaurants, include: barriers, pedestrian guidance systems, counters and counter fittings, shelving, POS and POD items, food servery tray rails, signs and exhibit name holders. In addition we manufacture a range of standard – or to bespoke designs - door handles and an extensive disability range to assist in compliance with the DDA.

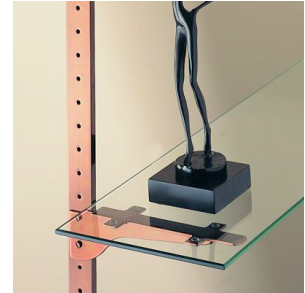

Savekers will design, produce and finish metalwork and joinery items, to incorporate glass and a combination of all three materials as required, we can offer high levels of product selection, bespoke design, modification of standard product design to increase functionality for individual customers, supported by our team of experienced on-site installation, maintenance and facilities/project management teams.

This resource is all held and operated in-house, so the Group can and does work with interior designers, brand managers, architects and contractors, to undertake one-off projects through to complete renovations and refurbishments.

Pillar of Art Deco period

Savekers joined in the celebration of the Art Deco period when it supplied more than 100 items to the Museum of London for its flagship exhibition, entitled 'The 1920's – The Decade that Changed London'.

Amongst the portfolio of items supplied, spanning both bespoke and standard product, was caption holders used to name the exhibits, support structure to hold oil paintings, free-standing round tables and a pedestrian guidance system incorporating the company's Art Deco square pillar. All items were manufactured in polished chrome.
