Solutions for Post Offices

Protection screens to provide unobtrusive protection and security

Savekers delivers a unique combination of manufacturing expertise and industry knowledge specific to Post Offices and Post Office retail displays. We have our own range of protection screens that have been tested by the Post Office network to meet its own physical attack and installation requirements when installed with a suitably tested counter base.

Our protection screens provide unobtrusive protection of staff, stock and premises and we will manufacture and design a complete counter system to include standard height counters with protection screens, lower height counter and parcel hatches to provide counter service for wheelchair users, in line with the requirements of the Disability Discrimination Act. We also manufacture and supply a range of stainless steel coin scoops, parcel hatches and cash transfer trays.

Our Post Office customers include Whats Town Post office, Porth; Long Sutton post office, Lincolnshire; Blenheim Service Station, Oxford.

Savekers also manufactures a range of barriers and pedestrian guidance systems for use in busy areas requiring queuing systems. Our standard range includes a retractable barrier system that can be fixed, freestanding or to operate with floor sockets. Our range of complementary accessories include queuing signs, literature and message holders, as well as top fittings such as a writing surface. Other systems include our range of rope barriers and barrier systems and a selection of gates and barriers.

As well as Post Offices, our protection screens are used widely in insurance offices, kiosks, local government offices, police stations, late night stores and payment offices.

Post Offices often stock merchandise such as gifts, cards or even small groceries. Savekers is a leading manufacturer of simple to use, robust retail display systems ideal for such applications. Our standard range includes:

Standard retail display fittings and shelving made from oval or round tube in various sizes, with the flexibility to create an infinite variety of structures from the suite of standard component parts. The Cantel range of retail systems is a suite of innovative, stylish interchangeable shopfitting and display systems. Counter and cabinet fittings, including shelf strips, feet and legs, locks, hinges, connectors and ventilators, through to balustrades and handrails.
